Project Management Updates

Kaz Ashimura – W3C

26 June 2020

Video publishing policy

- YouTube channel for W3C:
  - https://www.youtube.com/c/W3COfficial

- W3C can host public and non-public videos on a dedicated media streaming platform called StreamFizz, provided by our partner Web Castor.
  - This platform is the one we used to host the AC meeting videos as part of the presentation viewers.
  - Currently, Dom from the W3C Team to be involved in uploading and managing videos on the platform (to be fixed in the near future).
- W3C can host public videos on the YouTube channel
  - At the moment, some of the W3C MarComm Team staff have the permission to manage that channel (discussion still ongoing on how to manage it).
- Both those platforms are expected to replace the current W3C video platforms (vimeo and media.w3.org).
